FORTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

The Final Adjournment of the Extra Session.

the Responsibility of Non-Appropriation Assumed by the Democrats-No Provision Made for the Fees of Marsha M -- Repeal of the Duty on Quinine-A Personal Explanation, &c., &c.

SENATE. TURBOAY, July I. Mr. Allison, from the Committee on Approp dons, reported with amendments House joint escoution in relation to pay of committee clorks, sages, and other employees of the Senate and House, and similar purposes. Among the committee amendments is the provision for additional pay to female Treasury clerks discharged under the reduction of force in the Treasury Department under the legislative appropriation bill, which was attached to the Senate Joint resolution which this resolution is intended to replace.

The committee amendments were agreed to and the joint resolution was passed.

he joint resolution was passed.

The committee amendments were agreed to and the joint resolution was passed.

On motion of Mr. Eaton the House joint resolution, fixing Monday, June 30, at four p. m., as the time of final adjournment, was taken up.

Mr. Eaton moved to strike out: "Monday, June 30, at four p. m.," and insert: "Truesday, July 1, at five p. m.," and insert: "Truesday, July 1, at five p. m.," The Committee on Appropriations had, after mature deliberation, not felt able to fix an earlier hour, as there was business yet to be transacted by both Houses.

Mr. Windom said his side had now exhausted all the legitimate powers consistered upon them by the rules of the Sanato in order to induce the majority to make necessary appropriations for instrhals. The President had, so far as Mr. Windom knew, exhausted all the powers possessed by him on the subject. He had made a patriotic appeal to Congress to do its duty and not go home without making necessary appropriations. He quoted from the President's message to Congress of pesterday, and from the laws defining the duties of marshals. What would be thought of a State Legislature that would adjourn without making any provisions for sheriffs to execute the laws of the State?

Mr. Windom continued by showing that for four years a Democratic House had annually possed appropriation bills containing a special clause that the provisions of fille 26 Revised Statutes should be enforced. He thought this a curious fact, in view of the present attitude of the party. He referred to the assertions of prominent Democratic Senators have an altern, while the party carried out the threat made at the opening of the session, to coerce the Executive into endorsing excitain political measures as the condition of allowing the Government to go on. The Republicans had done all in their power and would not now further oppose the adjournment resolution. If the Democratic at the proper strike of the party could afford to go to the proper with the power and would not now further oppose the adjournment resolution. If the sad been furnished and powder denied—the arm was paralyzed.

Mr. Extox resented Mr. Windom's assertion that the Democrats would be responsible for non-execution of the decrees of the counts and said the Republicans were open to such a charge.
Mr. Carpsyram asked Mr. Exton if he thought the army appropriation bill authorized the use of troops at the polls in any form whetever.
Mr. Extox did not take so. If it did, he had made a great mistake in voting for it.
Mr. Carpsyram entirely agreed with Mr. Extox.
Mr. Extox was gratified. He entertained a high opinion of Mr. Carpenter's legal ability, and hoped his opinion would govern the "man at the other and of the avenue."
The adjournment resolution was passed as amended—yeas, 27; hays, 16—a party vote. The Democrats voting yeas and the Republicans nay.
A message from the House amounced that that body had non-concurred in the Senate amendments to the House joint resolution relating to committee clerks, pages, &c.
Messars, Extox, Beck, and Allisox were appointed members of a conference committee on the resolution.
Mr. Hannes moved to reconsider the vote by thempers of a conference commerce the motion.

Mr. Harms moved to reconsider the vote by which the quinine bill was referred to the France Committee yesterday. He did this because if the bill was reported to day from the committee a single objection would defeat its present consideration. He desired it to be considered in the Senate to-day and passed.

Mr. Mornitt opposed the motion. He did not now urge any argument against the final abolition of the duty on quinine, but it was manifestly unjust and improper to do it at this time, and so suddenly

Just and Improper to do it at this time, and so suddenly

Mr. Beck read statistics, showing that for the fiscal year ending Juno 39, 1878, the customs receipts from quinine were only $10,000.

Mr. Maxey remarked feet the effect of this $10, 000 duly was that there so four quitine factories in the United States, receiving a bonus of about $700,000, by reason of this enormous tax imposed on the people—mainly the poor people—of the country. If the bill were passed it should also allow our manufacturers to obtain alcohol or fusil oil without large duties thereon.

Mr. Hanner motion was agreed to, and the bill was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. Monutti moved to amend by extending the exemption from duty to Callsaya, Peruvian, and Chinchons barks.

Messrs, Rack and Hill (Ga.) said these articles

Mr. Morrill's amendment was lost.

The bill was reported back to the Senate, read a third time, and passed by a who roce vote, no negative vote being heard.

The President pro tem, laid before the Senate a communication from the President of the United States, transmitting, in answer to a Senate resolution, the report of the Secretary of State on the subject of correspondence in regard to the proposed Austin and Topolovampo Railroad survey, Ordered to be printed and lie on the table.

Mr. Allison moved to take up the resolution heretoforesubmitted by him to print for the use of the Senate the testimony taken before the Treasury Investigating Committee. Lost.

days extra pay for House employees—yeas, 30; mays, 13.

At 325 p. m., a message from the House announced that a committee of three members of that body had been appointed to wait upon the President of the United States, inform him of the impending adjournment, and inquire if he had any further communication to make to Congress, and asking the appointment of a similar committee on the part of the Senate to act with the House committee.

recently found it necessary to assure the country that he had not been drunk for three days. [Laughter, Every member knew that was faise in every particular. He was charged with being a conspictions member of the House—conspictions for his inability to keep soher. [Laughter,] As a fact he had abstained from intoxicating liquors during this whole session, as his colleagues would bear wimess. The same paper decided that he had been mistaken for Mr. Robinson, chairman of the Ohio Republican Committee, in an interview, in which Mr. Hubbell, supposing him to be that gentleman, had saked him to contribute to the National View, the Greenback paper. The Ardanche used language such as would create the impression that no such interview had taken place, and that his statement in the Washington post was utrine. The publication of the affair had not originated with him; but finding that it had been published, with knim; but finding that it had been published, with knim; but finding that it had been published, with that conversation had taken place.

Mr. Hönneth, admitted that the interview had Mr. Hönneth, admitted that the interview had taken place, but thought that if the gentleman from Kentenky had informed him of his mistake when he had approached him that gentleman would not have found is necessary to make a personal explanation. He had no ill-will toward the gentleman from Kentucky; but if that gentleman had had the good some to keep quiet he would not now have been rising to dony that he had ever been drunk. [Laughter,]

Mr. Tensus inquired way Mr. Rubbell did not state what he had said and what had occurred.

Mr. Hunnal. Because I thought it so simple and so foolish a matter, and of so little importance, that I never intended to allede to it, and I never should have if the gentleman had not. [Laughter.]

so foolish a matter, and of so little importance, that I never intendent to alined to it, and I never should have if the gentleman had not. [Laughter,]

He smid further that the affair was so furnly that he asmedimes laughed about it when he was alone. The great Democratic party felt outraged to think that the Republicans were trying to curry favor with the Greenback party. It was awful bad. It was a terrible thing in politics. [Laughter,] Ever since the Greenback party had been organized the Democratic party had the ourry favor with II, and had made it all sorts of promises, and now it was a terrible thing for the Republicans to try to use it against the Democrats. Awful. [Laughter,] Mr. Tunnen gave a short account of an interview which had taken place subsequent to the one already referred to, as to the exact lauguage used on that occasion.

The subject was then dropped.

The bill relative to the pay of committee clerks, &c., was received with amendments from the Sonate, the amendments non-concurred in, and a conference committee ordered.

The House then resumed the consideration of the business of the morning hour, being the bill prohibiting political assessments.

The Republicans resumed their dilatory tactics, and at the expiration of the morning hour the bill went over without action.

A message was received from the Senate stating that that body had agreed to the House resolution for final adjournment, with an amendment fixing the time for adjournment at 5 p. m. to-day.

Mr. Moskuson moved to concur in the amendment.

Mr. Congen demanded the year and mays, and ment.

Mr. Congra demanded the year and mays, and they resulted—year, 93; nays, 53—a party vote. So the amendment was concurred in.

A message from the Senate announcing the parage of the bill putting quinine on the free list was received with demonstrations of applause.

Resolutions, by unanimous consent, were then indulged in, and the following were agreed to:
Paying the employees of the House who are borne on the annual roil one month's extra pay.

For the printing of the report of the Commissioner of Patents in the case of Henry Valler for an extension of his patent.

Bill was passed for the relief of the estate of Honry Comard.

Bill was passed for the relief of the estate of Henry Comard.

The Speaker announced the appointment of Messrs. Atkins, Bicknell, and Field as a committee to wait upon the President and inform him that the two Houses were ready to adjourn if he had no further communication to make.

Resolution was adopted for the payment of $1.26 to 1. H. Flizhugh for services as Dorkeeper during the Forty-fourth Congress.

The Senate bill was passed compensating Professor Peter Coiller for services as chemist in the prosecution of parties evading the duties upon sugar.

The Boeaker announced the appointment of Mr. Herndon upon the committee in regard to the Cincinnati election in place of Mr. Samford, declined.

The House then, at 2-10, took a recess until four ordock.

When the House was called to order after the recess there was a marked absence in the galleries of the spectators, with which they are usually filled on the occasion of an adjournment of Congress. Even upon the floor there were few indications that the close of the session was approaching. There were but a very few members in the area in front of the Speaker's table claiming recognition, the remainder patiently walting in their seats the arrival of the hour fixed for adjournment.

Mr. BLACKHURN submitted the conference report on the joint resolution relative to the pay of committee clerks, &c., and it was agreed to.

On modion of Mr. Convense, Senate bill granting additional rights to homestead settlers within railroad limits in the States of Missouri and Arkansas was taken from the Speaker's table and passed.

GRORGETOWN NEWS.

Collected by Republican Reporters.

An educated tramp—such, in brief, is the character which the reporter of this paper met with yesterday evening at Lieutenant Skippon's Police Station, while going his usual rounds in quest of items. An educated tramp is indeed no rare eris, but when possessed of a history so comprehensive as the present subject than the same becomes worthy of more than passing notice. John A. McDowell is the name, fletilious or otherwise, of the tramp in question. He turned up at the station in a condition sometimes termed "half seas over." but his spirit of loquacity was in a most vigorous state. Notwithstanding this, he was quite tinwilling to give his name, and it was only by chance that it was mentioned. In conversation with the reporter and the station weething of the man's history was ascertained. Educated at Georgetown over twenty-two years ago, John A. McDowell, the "drunken tramp and educated fool," as he calls himself, was for a number of years a prominent correspondent of several of the New York journals. His knowledge of Gotham newspapers and men, which he reconsted in a most brilliant manner leaves no doubt on this score. Subsequently he went to Paria as secretary to a prominent. American individual, whose mans unfortunately escaped the reporter's memory. In gay Paris McDowell remained for over a year, and at that place is dated the commencement of his downfall. Drink was the sole cause. He speaks French fittently, and his familiarity with French customs, institutions, and statesmer gives truth to the assertions of the educated tramp. McDowell has wandered also in his own country from Maine to Mexico, and has a store of experiences that would make volumes of interesting reading. He was extremely glad to meet one of his bother knights of the quill in the person of THE RIPURIJOAN representative, and his parting request for a double nicke was satisfactory evidence of his last assurance.

Mr. Rudolph Uhlmer and Dr. A. R. Shekell, two well-known residents of this town, will leave in a
